

LIBRARIANS FIGHTING FOR YOUR PRIVACY

Library Freedom Project gives librarians the skills to take back privacy in the information age. We have resources to address the needs of your community.

WHAT IS LIBRARY FREEDOM PROJECT?

Since 2015, we've taught librarians about threats to privacy-government and police surveillance, big data, malware, fraud, identity theft, and more - and practical ways we can turn libraries into privacy-protective spaces through a combination of tools, strategies, and knowledge. We collaborate with advocates, attorneys, and hackers from across the privacy and digital rights field, and we tailor our approach to work in a variety of library communities.

LFP's website has free high-quality resources that you can download to learn and teach about privacy in your community.

CONTACT A PRIVACY ADVOCATE

We are available to speak at conferences, workshops, and library staff events for reasonable fees. If you'd like to schedule some time with LFP or just want to say hi, feel free to reach out and we will get back to you as soon as possible. Contact us through the website at libraryfreedom.org.

USE OUR RESOURCES

Our website offers materials ranging from bookmarks to flyers, and presentation materials. All are free for you to use and distribute and download.

WHAT WE DO

- Staff Training
- Patron Programming
- Conference Talks
- Advocate for Public Policy
- Influence Ethical Standards in Library Culture

LEARN MORE ONLINE AT
<https://libraryfreedom.org>

WHAT IS LIBRARY FREEDOM INSTITUTE?

Library Freedom Institute (LFI) is a free, privacy-focused, six-month program for librarians to teach them the skills necessary to thrive as Privacy Advocates; from educating community members, to installing privacy software, to influencing public policy. Library Freedom Project is comprised of members from the LFI cohort. Interested in becoming a cohort member? Check our website for the next application period!

43

PRIVACY ADVOCATES

3

COUNTRIES

23

LIBRARY PARTNERS

20

STATES

2

COHORTS TO DATE

FIND A COHORT MEMBER NEAR YOU

A Library Freedom Project cohort member is closer than you think! Check out the map below to find someone near you or connect with someone virtually.

