

Megan Kinney
Cohort - 2018
LFI - Week 8

Assignment: Come up with your own outreach idea around the right to privacy: either slides, talking points, or an informal conversation where you bring these points up to staff or patrons. Collaborate with other cohort members if you want!

As a new employee at City College of San Francisco, I will be joining a bi-weekly meeting with other library faculty. In these meetings, I can offer up information learned from the LFI curriculum, and propose potential workshops for students (or other faculty). A natural avenue I see for starting this work is in a bi-annual "FLEX" workshop activity. FLEX activities happen four times a school year. These are days when the entire campus is closed to give opportunities for all campus employees to engage in professional development. Individuals can propose activities and lead them if they are chosen.

Potential FLEX Activity Workshop: Making Sanctuary Matter (through technology)

- Do our own threat model
- Do a threat model for a student you have been concerned for in one of your classes
- What are the difference in your threat models
- What are the ways you communicate with students
 - Email? (As a public institution, our emails can be pulled via FOIA request. Are your students safe in this interaction?)
 - Texts? (Have you heard of Signal?)
- General tips for personal internet security
 - Strong passwords - passphrases & password storage tools
 - Computer updates
 - Http/https